2013 Territorials by Loretta Cruz

It's hard to believe that I have been the territorial coordinator for four years. Time does really fly by when you're having fun. During the past four years I've had the privilege of getting to know some really outstanding people in the black powder community by visiting territorial matches representing the NMLRA. This position has allowed me to become familiar with many of the shooters that I enter into the spread sheets each year to determine the top shooters in each aggregate. I find myself even pulling for shooters I've never met, hoping that their score will be good enough to allow them to make it into the top ten. I feel real disappointment when they don't and even more excitement when they do. I hope you anticipate the top ten report each year as much as I do!

By the Numbers

The 2013 Territorials saw matches in twenty five states from coast to coast. We were pleased to once again have Ohio host a territorial. This year we had just fewer than six hundred and fifty shooters. Those competitors shot a combined total of 1901 aggregates. Missouri, Colorado, and Pennsylvania had the highest attendance at their territorials. While Nebraska, Missouri, and Idaho sold the most aggregates. The Hunter's Aggregate continues to be the most popular aggregate shot; followed by offhand, flintlock, unlimited long hunter, and pistol respectively. Match director Arnie Burr of Idaho had the most youth shooters with sixteen. It's great to see a club actively promoting our sport with young people. Overall, it was reported that the territorial season was a success despite several territorials having cold rainy weather and lower attendance for some due to the economy. No matter the weather or participation level, match directors stated that shooters were having fun.

How Do You Figure Out That Score?

I'm sure some of you may have already taken a minute to look over the top ten for each aggregate and some of you are scratching your head about first place in the bench aggregate. This year there was a three way tie for first place, all three shooters shot a 193-5X. Stephanie Harding was reported as the winner in Pennsylvania over last year's bench top gun Michael Wengert; however, Ken Laverty also shot the same score in Oregon. After consultation with a few past territorial coordinators, it was decided that without having targets to compare and look at the fairest solution was to declare all three the top gun.

Perfect Scores

Those sub juniors sure know how to shoot! Hunter Shoop had a perfect score of 100-10x in the sub aggregate, which just beat out Reed Elliott's 100-8x shot in West Virginia, and Nicole Tretter of Alabama held her own with a 100-2x in Alabama. Great shooting kids! Colorado shotgun shooter Kim Davis didn't miss a single clay pigeon in the trap aggregate. It must have been very exciting at the Missouri shotgun territorial where Kim earned that perfect score.

This Year's Top Gun

The overall top gun for 2013 is Clint Richmond who took top honors in the offhand, flintlock, and one gun aggregates, as well as placing in the top ten in three other aggregates. He continues to put up excellent scores year after year. On the ladies side Neysa Bush was once again named female top gun thanks to a win in the ladies pistol aggregate, despite some tough competition. Jordan Shackelford was able to take the top gun position for juniors with top scores in the youth hunter and intermediate aggregates. These three shooters consistently set the bar high for their fellow black powder competitors.

Changes and Additions

This year there will be changes to the territorial program cartridge match. After several years of lobbying, the black powder cartridge aggregate will see different targets, all shot from the bench with a fourteen pound rifle limit. I hope to hear what cartridge shooters think about the changes after they have had the opportunity to shoot the aggregate. This year we will be offering a trial revolver aggregate which will consist of three matches. This aggregate was proposed by Buck Buchanan of North Carolina as a way to offer additional shooting for revolver and pistol shooters. If the aggregate is well received we will look to adding the international target best ten shots out of thirteen next year.

Thank You!

Each year I end my article with thanking those people who help make this program a success people like Joyce Vogel my right hand lady in the office, Jan Repovsch who updates the computer scoring program and the match directors who work tirelessly to make the competitions come off looking so effortless. This year I want to thank the people that are working hard behind the scenes, so I asked each match director if there was anyone special they wanted to recognize. Thank you to Herb Nichalson and Tracy Pressley of Georgia for keeping the range in tip top shape and people well fed. A big hats-off goes to Bill Bowling of North Carolina and Joanie Root of New York for their knowledge of computers and scoring. The same goes to Lilli Price of New Hampshire, who just jumps right in to help where it's needed. Don't think people haven't noticed your hard work Ken Yelick of Alaska – thanks for scoring targets for the last ten years! Shotgun shooters were well fed in Illinois thanks to Ron and Shirley. The Tobacco River Muzzleloaders want to let Sharon Smith – who is not even a club member – know just what a special lady she is, thanks for volunteering! In Vermont we'd like to thank Lois who has been running our registration and target shack for as long as I can remember. All the other match directors said they couldn't single out one person to recognize, because everyone works so hard. So THANK YOU to each of you!

On the following pages you will find the information on the Territorial Matches that have currently been approved for the 2014 season. There is still time to host a territorial in your state, so if you are interested please contact me. I want to encourage you all to get out there and get shooting. These territorials offer all of us a great opportunity to meet new people, try something new, see some of the country, and participate in the sport we love. What are you waiting for? The 2014 Territorial season is right around the corner.
